Living Safely

Overview:

Live Well San Diego is the County of San Diego's vision of a region that is Building Better Health, Living Safely and Thriving. In 2010, the County launched the first component of Live Well San Diego with a health strategy called Building Better Health. It provides a framework for how the County will integrate services and, in some cases, change the way services are delivered over the long term to achieve a healthy San Diego County.

The second phase, Living Safely, addresses both the community's perception of overall safety in San Diego as well as the actual incidence of crime, injury and abuse. This plan is intended to facilitate cooperation and collaboration with public agencies and private sector partners as they develop and align regional policies and programs. Living Safely also communicates a shared policy approach to making communities safer, to ensure that we are traveling in the same direction, in a coordinated approach, toward the same vision.

Key Components:

- Who We Serve – Individuals, Families, and Communities
- Focus Areas - Preparedness, Prevention, Protection, Accountability, and Rehabilitation
- Timeline – Ten-year effort to develop new ways to enhance our safety strategies
- Where – Throughout San Diego County, working collaboratively with law enforcement, public agencies and community partners
- How We Achieve Our Goals – Strategies and corresponding implementation actions provide direction; Four Strategic Approaches provide framework

Outcomes:

The Living Safely component focuses on achieving three key outcomes to keep San Diego County one of the safest communities in the nation.

To this end, we are committed to a San Diego region where:

Residents are protected from crime or abuse

Neighborhoods
are safe to work,
live and play

Communities are resilient to disasters and emergencies

How We Will Achieve These Outcomes:

Residents are protected from crime or abuse

At the heart of reducing crime and abuse is the goal of reducing victimization. Criminal justice and social service agencies within San Diego are committed to a coordinated, collaborative approach to create a region where residents are protected from crime and abuse. Agencies within this County have already made an unprecedented commitment to working together to develop and implement strategies that improve public safety. Locally, our strategy has advanced a balanced-approach model that reduces crime by holding offenders accountable while providing them access to rehabilitation. We will work towards stronger coordination between County services to better identify and target those at risk of victimization, abuse and neglect, and enhance response and support services for this population.

Neighborhoods are safe to work, live and play

Tackling safety issues in our region requires wide-ranging efforts. Serious injuries and preventable deaths continue to be a major concern in San Diego. Disabling injuries or injury-related deaths devastate families and individuals, and this emotional toll is often compounded by related economic burdens, such as loss of income or the cost of healthcare. Likewise, abuse and other traumatic events can cause serious and lasting harm to families and individuals, exacting heavy tolls and shortening lifespans. The Living Safely strategy aims to improve outcomes for residents by facilitating stronger social ties within neighborhoods to reduce isolation, supporting community design that promotes safety, promoting safety in the home and workplace, and empowering individuals to lead safer lives. Reducing workplace accidents and maintaining a healthy workforce will improve the quality of life in San Diego County, and our efforts include addressing safety in our own County employee wellness initiatives.

Communities are resilient to disasters and emergencies

Along with San Diego's idyllic location and weather comes the significant risk of natural and man-made disasters. Within the past decade, San Diego has endured two major firestorms that have resulted in significant losses. Topography and geographic location make the San Diego region highly susceptible to wildfires, earthquakes, environmental and public health threats. Living Safely recognizes that disaster preparedness, at both the community and personal level, is critical to the overall safety and resiliency of the region. Resiliency requires implementation of effective preparedness programs and incident management. But it also requires public engagement and leadership from our public agencies, well before incidents occur. Public engagement is not new and has been an integral part of our strategy in this region, but this initiative emphasizes a commitment to strengthening resiliency through civil and community preparedness.
